Hi Alex,

Thanks for your help and efforts to secure Liability insurance for our firm. Per our last phone conversation, you had mentioned that I should get approval for the General Contractor license prior to getting the bond or insurance. That makes sense and the local office advised me to apply first and get approval just as you had said.

So as it stands I have applied for a sales tax privilege certificate and the license. I will keep you posted and as soon as I receive approval, I will send you the completed bond application.

We are also applying for financing for our business. I am putting a business plan together and if it would be of value to you or your underwriters, I could include it also. In this regard, it would be helpful to us to have an estimate of what our insurance costs would be. Would you be able to supply some estimated figures for the Liability and Completed operations coverage and the bond???

Do you provide policies for workman's compensation for employees? Or do I need to get that locally?

Sincerely,

Tom Mosher, manager
